The MSW experience has opened up new ways of thinking and acting. The program has had a profound impact on me, not only as a professional but also as a person. I'm a much better social worker as a result.

Academic Pathways

MSW Curriculum

A place to grow

Your graduate studies at King's will include:

Student Engagement Week

Kick-start your program with a week dedicated to an orientation to the program including the key areas of study and an opportunity for self-evaluation led by the faculty who will be teaching you.

Professional Development Workshops

Students will choose 3 of 5 professional development workshops in which to participate. Focused on thematic practice areas, you will have the opportunity to study alongside field instructors and current social work practitioners. A great opportunity for both learning and networking!

Reflective Practice Project (RPP)

During your practicum, you will have an opportunity to reflect on a real-world program or practice evaluation related to your field setting.

Integrative Capstone Experience (ICE)

Your graduate studies will culminate in an Integrative Capstone Experience (ICE). Students working in small groups will be given the opportunity to demonstrate the knowledge and skills they have acquired through their MSW program by engaging in a major case study exercise.

The diversity of experience and expertise offered by the faculty made King's the best choice for a Master's education. The skills I acquired from this array of professionals prepared me to transition smoothly into the field.

I came to King's because I absolutely love the community feel, it is such a small little tight knit community. The class sizes are very small and intimate so your learning experience is just amplified by that.
