

King's Model United Nations Unites Secondary School Students for Worldly Debate

May 15, 2013

For immediate release-

King's sets the stage for worldly debate between 120 secondary school students on May 16 during its 4th annual King's Model United Nations conference. The conference provides students with the opportunity to enhance a variety of critical thinking skills, as they simulate the United Nations by debating world issues. Students are invited to participate in the KMUN to broaden their knowledge of international politics, as well as to practice and improve their public speaking and debating skills. King's Model United Nations is a full day conference which includes simulations of the General Assembly, Security Council and other United Nations' bodies.

This year, students will be participating from A.B.Lucas, Sir Frederick Banting, Catholic Central, Central Elgin Collegiate, John Paul II, London Central, Medway and Saunders secondary schools. The conference registration opens at 9 a.m. followed by a keynote presentation by Dr. Peter Ibbott, Associate Professor of Economics, King's University College. The first session of debate begins at 10:40 a.m., followed by lunch and then further debates at 1:10 p.m. and 2:50 p.m.

Following the debating sessions, students are invited to celebrate at the awards ceremonies, which will be followed by a networking and congratulatory dinner.

All events are held in Labatt Hall, 266 Epworth Ave, London. Full conference details can be found at <http://kmun.kings.uwo.ca/>
