

Community Based Learning Symposium

March 28th, 2018 11am-1pm

Why King's University College Should Invest in a Food Forest, Fiacre Batera

The City of London's River Responsibility in Indigenous Communities: Increasing Funding for Water Treatment on First Nation Reserves, Tyler Hoekstra

Sanctuary Cities and London, Jillian Bjelan

Intergenerational Poverty: Finance and the Education System in London, Leslie Hotham

Housing First, Healing Second: A Cultural Housing First Approach to Indigenous Homelessness in London Ontario, Kylie Castle

A Step Towards Ending the Opioid Crisis: The Decriminalization of Drugs, Erik Mack

Challenging Precarious Work through Worker Cooperatives, Denise Cooke

How Reducing Food Waste in London Creates a Sustainable City, Nicholas Maharaj

Minimum Wage Increases Won't Solve Poverty, Tim Firth

Repair Human Life Through Renovation: A Case for Capital Funding, Manyang Mangek

Food Security: A Community Cause, Danica Flores

Banning Plastic Straws in London, Mackenzie McKim

Follow SJPS at King's kings.uwo.ca/academics/social-justice-and-peace-studies/

@sjpsKings

Community Based Learning Symposium

High Risk, Low Priority: Prioritizing Police Response to the Safety Needs of Sex Workers in Present Day London, Ontario, Georgina Gifford

The Invisibility of Disability, Chloée Godin-Jacques

City of London's Indigenous Working Group, Jessica Hay

How Can Businesses Keep you Safe? Rachel Bell

Youth Moving Up in the World, Kayla Hendricks

The Societal Shift, Michael Jeffrey Miazga

The Philadelphia Model: Unfounded Sexual Assault Cases,
Carolyne Simiyu

Uniting Current Shelter Residents with Former Shelter Residents: Mentorship Program, Shakil Nathoo:

Harm Reduction, What's Your Function? Laura Ramirez

Income Security That Will Work for London, Cassidy Sweet

Follow SJPS at King's

kings.uwo.ca/academics/social-justice-and-peace-studies/

@sjpsKings