

History 4896G – Special Topics

Hate Speech

Do you want to learn more about hate speech in Canada? About how hate movements have impacted Canadians, and how hate speech has historically been defined, resisted, and prohibited by law? What about debates over how hate speech laws conflict with free speech? If so, History 48968 is for you!

This course includes an exciting opportunity for experiential learning!

History 4896G includes:

- an archival research component
- visits to local or provincial archives to conduct research
- opportunity to work hands-on with historical documents and artifacts

Practice the skills of historians while learning about hate speech in Canada.

