

History 2891E

Human Rights: Past, Present, Future

This new course for Fall-Winter 2019-2020 explores such questions as:

- What are human rights?
- Where do they come from?
- What obstacles limit the universal enjoyment of human rights?
- Why do human rights remain so contested?

This team-taught course features lectures and applied workshops by guest activists and practitioners discussing practical applications of human rights in today's world.

For further information, including how to enrol, please contact:
Professor Robert Ventresca (rventres@uwo.ca)