POL 3320E: City Studio Women and Civic Leadership

Experiential Learning

September 2018 - April 2019

What is this course about?

Women continue to be underrepresented in civic leadership. This course offers a unique experience for students who identify as women and are interested in becoming engaged in civic leadership and community building. Students get paired with a female leader and learn about the opportunities and barriers that women are facing in the field. The female leader that students are paired with acts as a mentor and work alongside their mentor within the field.

How do I apply?

To be considered for this course, students should send the following to Jessica Muller (jessica.muller@kings.uwo.ca) by June 20, 2018:

- A copy of their CV
- A copy of their unofficial transcript
- A 500-word statement answering the question: "How will this experience enhance my academic experience and future professional aspirations?"
- Email subject line must state 'Application for Political Science 3320E'
