

King's International Presents: 16th Annual King's Cultural Performing Arts Festival

February 26, 2019

The Event: 16th Annual King's Cultural Performing Arts Festival, presented by King's International, King's University College.

The Show: The performing arts festival will feature over 15 cultural performances from the King's, Western and London communities. The performances include dancing, singing, storytelling and more.

The Quote: "It's going to be a great event. There's dancing, there's singing and all forms of cultural arts. It's something you don't want to miss and a great way to promote diversity here on the campus," Linda Weber, Manager of King's International.

IF YOU GO:

What: 16th Annual King's Cultural Performing Arts Festival, presented by King's International

When: Wednesday, Mar. 6, 7 p.m. – 10 p.m.

Where: Joanne and Peter Kenny Theatre, King's University College, 266 Epworth Ave. London

Tickets: The festival is free, join the Facebook Event Page for more details. Freewill donations by cash or cheque to the St. Joseph's Hospitality Centre will also be accepted. Tax receipts are available by request.

King's University College is a Catholic, liberal arts university college affiliated with Western University and founded in 1954. The King's International Office has built a community of university students with diverse cultural backgrounds. King's is home to approximately 678 international students from over 33 countries from around the world.

Media Contact Information:

Leo Aul

King's University College Communications Intern

leo.aul@uwo.ca

www.kings.uwo.ca