King's University College first in Canada to offer international students access to Devant's customized international student support platform

London, Ontario – With a goal to allow its international students to stay, work and succeed in Canada, King's University College is the first university in Canada to offer Devant's new, customized international student support platform to international students. King's University College and Devant have partnered to share resources and create new career development opportunities for international students at King's looking to make a strong start to their careers in Canada.

Through King's University College's membership with Devant, King's students will have access to new resources to inform their career path, including:

- 'Get Hired' Master Class & official Certification with 30+ video modules and downloadable templates
- Online Resume Tools including resume scanner and writing guidebook
- Live Virtual Hiring Expos with 20+ Employers
- Live Webinars hosted by Career Experts on topics such as LinkedIn, Industry Research, and Interview Skills
- Live Immigration Q&As with a Canadian Immigration lawyer
- Professional Networking Events

Devant is dedicated to helping international students and recent graduates Stay. Work. Succeed in Canada. Devant's team of HR professionals, career coaches, and former international students works with thousands of international students and alumni across the country to help them prepare for a meaningful career.

The partnership between King's and Devant represents yet another step King's has taken to ensure students, and especially international students, have access to programs and services to help them transition to meaningful and rewarding careers.
