

King's Excellence in Teaching Awards for Dr. Trevor Hunter and Professor Jeremy Greenway

June 12, 2017

London ON – King's University College is proud to recognize Dr. Trevor Hunter and Professor Jeremy Greenway with the King's University College Award for Excellence in Teaching for 2017.

Dr. Trevor Hunter is being awarded the King's Award for Excellence in Teaching by full-time faculty. He is a professor of Business, Management & Organizational Studies and has been a member of King's faculty for 15 years. Vice Principal Dr. Sauro Camiletti notes that, "Dr. Hunter recreates the business environment in the classroom, integrates his research into his teaching and demands a high level of engagement and professionalism from his students. He aims to prepare his students for their future careers and, in turn, Dr. Hunter's students see him as a mentor inside and outside the classroom."

Professor Jeremy Greenway is being awarded the King's Award for Excellence in Teaching by part-time faculty. Professor Greenway is a professor in the department of Modern Languages and has been at King's since 2014. He is described by his colleagues and supervisors as "brilliant, enthusiastic, rigorous, knowledgeable and dedicated," says Dr. Camiletti. Professor Greenway's students describe him as inspiring, motivational, readily available outside the classroom and generous with the individual attention he provides. Dr. Camiletti continues, "Professor Greenway genuinely enjoys teaching and working with young people."

Both professors are examples of true excellence in teaching and dedication to students. King's wishes warm congratulations to Dr. Hunter and Professor Greenway.

King's is a publicly-funded Catholic post-secondary institution founded in 1954. King's provides general and honors degree programs in the liberal arts, social sciences, business, and a master's degree in social work.
