

King's University College presents the 14th annual Cultural Festival

January 31st, 2017

London, ON: The King's University College Cultural Festival returns on February 1st from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the Joanne & Peter Kenny Theatre, 266 Epworth Ave. London. The Festival will feature 12 acts performed by students, staff, faculty and community groups, celebrating over 15 different cultures. In addition, there will be a special performance by visiting students from Kangnam University, Korea. The Kangnam students are at King's on a short-term exchange as part of a long-standing partnership between the two universities.

The Sisters of All Nations Singers, a women's drum group representing first nations from across Canada, will open the Festival. They will be followed by acts from the African Students' Association (ASA), the Caribbean Students' Organization (CSO), Chris Leschied, Indigenous Voices, Irish Stew, Joe Michalski, Korean Arts, the London Chinese Ensemble, and the Pakistani Students' Association (PSA), to name a few. Refreshments will be served during intermission.

There are currently 500 exchange and international students studying at King's. The Cultural Festival is an opportunity to celebrate the diversity on campus. The event is free to attend and open to the public. Donations are being accepted for the Refugee Sponsorship Initiative.

The event, hosted by King's International, is also supported by the King's University College Students' Council, CultureWorks, King's Information Technology Services and Aramark. Parking is available in lot 1, on the north side of Epworth Ave.

King's is a publicly-funded Catholic post-secondary institution founded in 1954. King's provides general and honors degree programs in the liberal arts, social sciences, business, and a master's degree in social work. It is positioned in the top rank of institutions of higher learning in Canada for the high quality of its teaching faculty and student experience. Institutionally autonomous, King's is academically-affiliated with Western University. King's is open to students of all faith backgrounds, with its community centered on the values of social justice, equality and the education of the whole person.

For more information please contact:

Jane Antoniak
Manager, Communications & Media Relations
King's University College
communications@kings.uwo.ca
519-433-3491 x 4384
519-719-9366
@kingsatwestern
www.kings.uwo.ca