CCC Global Career Seminar in Japan 2026

Instructors : James Liu, Norie Yazu
Course Website : <https://kguccc.com/gcsj/>

Course Overview:

The Global Career Seminar in Japan (GCSJ) is a unique program which combines the studies of business analysis and cross-cultural communication. Students are taught modern business tactics and then given business assignments by companies/organizations. They will produce a business plan in a group of approximately 6, which consist of Kwansei Gakuin University students and students from the four Canadian universities. Working closely as a team and spending private time together all through the program, the KGU and Canadian students will be immersed in a cross-cultural environment and learn about each other's culture.

This course is divided into two parts: the online period (remote) and the on-site period (in Japan). The online period, conducted from June to July, consists of several short video-lectures and assignments. The online period also includes an ice-breaker session which allows the students to get to know each other and Q&A sessions with the companies/organizations.

The on-site period will take place in August at one of the Kwansei Gakuin University campuses in Japan. On the first day of the on-site period, the students will take lectures and learn about conflict management within a team and cross-cultural communication. The teams will be given several days to brush up their business plans and prepare for their final presentations. During the tutorials, the students will conduct preliminary presentations and meet with the representatives of the companies/organizations to get their advice. The final presentation will be conducted as a competition-style event where all teams present their business plans to the representatives of the companies/organizations.

Learning Goals:

Through this course, students will improve their understanding of global business, cross-cultural competency, analytical skills, and international team building including online communication and project management skills.

Aug. 14, 2025 – 30, 2026 (Seminars and internship period in Japan)

Course Overview:

This course is an award-winning international internship program (*1) offered in Japan, combined with online and on-site course work about business analysis and cross-cultural communication. It provides students with an opportunity to experience and analyze practical issues in Japanese business settings through paired internships consisting of a KGU and a Canadian university student. The entire course is offered in English and takes the form of Problem Based Learning (PBL), in which the students are required to tackle actual business assignments given by their internship companies. Working closely as a pair and spending private time together all through the program, the KGU and Canadian students will be immersed in a cross-cultural environment and learn about each other's culture.

This course is divided into two parts: the online period (remote) and the on-site period (in Japan). The online period, conducted in June and July, consists of short video-lectures along with assignments including topics such as SWOT analysis and modern market research methods. The online period also includes an ice-breaker session which allows the students to get to know each other and Q&A sessions with the companies.

The on-site period will take place at the end of August. Prior to their internship, the students will take lectures and participate in workshops and tutorials at the KGU campus. Here they will acquire basic knowledge of internships, business analysis, Japanese business manners and cross-cultural understanding, and study about their assigned companies. Thus, they will fully be prepared before they start their internship. On the last day of their 10-day internship, the students will present their final solution for the assignments given by the supervisors of their companies and receive feedback from them. After their internship, the students will return to KGU to give a final presentation about what they learned at their companies and share their experience with other students.

Please compile and hand in the reflection paper on the final day of the class (Aug. 30th).

As the host institutions are different in nature from each other, the instructors will take this into account when grading.
